

For 26 Years the King of England hunted Joseph Pride to kill him, while he hid out on the shores of Highland Lake in Falmouth Maine

On 30 January 1649 Joseph Pride, pioneer and first resident of Prides Corner, Maine, beheaded the tyrannical
King of England, Charles 1st

Charles 1st is known in history as “that man of Blood” because of the 200,000+ violent deaths he caused.

Joseph was 12 years old the day he executed King Charles 1st.

In 1660 Joseph, age 23, fled the Kings son, King Charles 2nd, and hid here in Maine for 26 years while the new King of England and the entire British Empire sought him to kill him.

He emerged 26 years later, the year after Charles 2nd died, to baptize the six children he and Jane Pride raised on the shores of Highland Lake in the Wilderness of Maine. Dec 12th 1686 was his day of victory over monstrous tyranny.
